Colorado Resource (CORE) Partners brings together leading local construction and community resource experts to create a new approach for helping connect workers to high-paying jobs and family support resources.

CORE Partners developed WORKNOW; a new construction industry-specific employment platform designed with and for working families in the community to ensure local residents can easily access career resources connected to infrastructure projects.

Building More, Building You.

WORKNOW empowers individuals and families who live in communities directly affected by City and State economic development projects to continue to serve the needs of their neighborhood through a job in construction.

This is the Metro area's first workforce development platform that strives to equalize opportunities for all Coloradans by facilitating inclusive, diverse, and skilled employment opportunities in construction. WORKNOW programming is concentrated in these key areas:

- Community Resource Navigation
- Job Skills Training
- Job Placement
- Career Coaching & Advancement
- Community Building
